Using the article on avocados sitting on your table, try to find the following three sources and write an MLA citation for each. Each of these sources is available to you in full text, but may require some sleuthing to find!

1. “A new study published in the Journal of the American Heart Association adds evidence to avocados’ potential to improve cardiovascular health”

2. “And a study in Nutrition Journal found that participants who ate half an avocado with lunch reported a 40% decreased desire to eat …”

3. “A 2008 meta-analysis found that avocado-soybean unsaponifiables (ASUs) improved symptoms of hip and knee arthritis …”
TIPS:

1. Pick out keywords that are likely to have been reproduced from the original article

2. Try multiple search tools, but only use a regular search engine as a last resort. Try our databases and Google Scholar.

3. Brainstorm with your group members on search strategies
